Saturday 21st October 9.30am - 12.30pm

If you are a regular worker then you know what to expect, turn up at the church gate and then cast around to see where we are working. If this is your first time then the same applies and please don't hesitate from coming just because you are unsure of the what and where.

The working party meetings are always enjoyable and worthwhile; we enjoy the social get together and I think that everybody who uses the churchyard can see the benefit of our efforts.

Once again we will be cutting ivy and pruning trees; appropriate tools will be secateurs and loppers. A saw might also be handy if you have one. It doesn't matter if you don't have any tools, come anyway, your help will be invaluable.

As ever, it doesn't matter if you can't make the full duration of the meeting, come when you can and leave when you have to. I look forward to seeing you or meeting you for the first time.

Richard Simpson

South Lakes

Worried about your energy bills?

.Citizens Advice says it's helping record numbers of people with energy debts before winter has even begun - and the size of the debts people face is rising. New research from the national charity shows almost eight million people had to borrow money to pay their energy bills in the first half of 2023, a number it forecasts will rise over the coming months. 1 in 4 people say their energy bill is the essential cost they're most worried about. Disabled people, single parents and low-income families will be hardest hit this winter.

Despite the fall in the energy price cap, the average household will probably pay slightly more in the coming winter than they did between January and March 2023. Starting the winter in debt means that people have to pay back arrears on top of the costs of increasing energy use in the colder months.

Disabled people and families with young children, particularly single parents, are more likely to have very high levels of energy debt, and high monthly shortfalls too. This can lead to stress and anxiety for people who already suffer higher levels of anxiety compared to the general population, but they are also more likely to be eligible for assistance with costs.

If you are worried about energy bills, advice and help is available on the Citizens Advice website: https:// www.citizensadvice.org.uk There is information on saving energy where possible to reduce costs. In addition, there are details of grants or benefits to help with energy bills, and how to check your eligibility. Contact your energy provider as well, as many can offer help to people who are struggling to pay bills, and may let you reschedule your payments. Borrowing money at high rates from doorstep lenders is not the solution, as it just increases your debt burden. If you are already worried about your debts, contact South Lakes Citizens Advice for help.

Free, confidential advice and help is available from South Lakes Citizens Advice on any aspect of debt, consumer problems, benefits, housing, employment or any other problems. South Lakes Citizens Advice, your local charity, is here for you.

In response to growing concern about cold calling on vulnerable people, Heversham Leasgill have now got a "whole village" No Cold Calling zone. There are stickers for people to display and the police encouragement is that they should go to everyone – otherwise they could signal vulnerability.

With this Parish News distribution in the village of Heversham Leasgill you should find a sticker inside your News.

Dear Friends,

A vicar was awoken one night by sounds of an intruder downstairs. He cautiously crept down, and sure enough, there was a burglar rifling through drawers.

Feeling brave, he found his voice: "What are you doing?"

"I'm looking for your money."

"Good idea. I think I'll join you."

This is not my personal pitch for a clergy pay rise, but it would be reasonably safe to assume neither I nor many of my colleagues in ministry have been invited to hold private bank accounts. You may recall the public outrage at individuals from different political perspectives who were 'debanked' for not holding to a bank's values. They had to be deemed respectable to avail of existing services. Elsewhere, public figures have their past social media postings scrutinised lest they have expressed opinions contrary to the fashions and fads of today. In other areas of life, applicants to certain clubs and societies must prove themselves and be nominated for membership. Other members must attest that this is a person of good character before you are 'in.'

Groucho Marx bucked the trend by insisting, "I don't want to belong to any club that will accept me as a member."

People have the idea that the church is somehow like that: a collection of the prize specimens on display, all sparkingly moral and upright, rather than being a gathering of failures who delight in forgiveness.

The Church of Jesus Christ is possibly the only organization where to be a member, you've got to admit that you're immoral. We start by recognising that we get it wrong.

One of the first things we do together is confess that we have messed up in life and before God. Every single one of us without exception. We begin by dealing with reality, with the truth of your life, and mine.

Mercifully, we don't have to get stuck there. The sign of belonging to Jesus Christ and trusting him is baptism in water, an image of washing. Our past, especially the ugly or unmentionable bits, can be wiped clean away because Jesus died on the cross. Christians recognise his death as dealing with our guilt before God, good enough to cover us with the very forgiveness of heaven. Christians are not perfect, but forgiven – and there's a world of difference between the two.

A man said to his vicar, "You know, I like God, but I'm not sure about joining a church. It is so full of hypocrites."

He got the reply: "Look, you're right, the church is full of hypocrites ... Actually, no, it's not quite full of hypocrites. There are a few seats left – why don't you come and join us?"

Every Blessing, Revd Bryan Kerr
